How Old is the Earth? A Biblical and Scientific Perspective

Do you think the earth is billions of years old and that life evolved by natural processes? Can the Biblical account of creation and the flood be supported scientifically or is it only a metaphor? You might be surprised to learn what recent discoveries in science actually show. Please join us for a series of presentations this summer that will explore the scientific evidence and arguments for a young earth creationist view of the origin and history of the world. We will also expose some of the flaws and inconsistencies in the evolution and old-earth science that contradict the Biblical worldview. Whether you are a young earth creationist, an old earth creationist, or somewhere in between, you will find this series enlightening and challenging.
